The Winning Shot is a short story written by Arthur Conan Doyle first published anonymously (only signed A.C.D.) in Bow Bells magazine, 11 July 1883. Miss Lottie Underwood and her lover Charley take a walk on the moor, where they meet a strange ugly Swede man known as Dr. Octavius Gaster. As he is lost and in search of a place to rest, Charley decides to invite him at his fathers house. The stranger is very agreeable and grown but he also has some strange behaviours. He reads an old book written in Arabic characters; he has some passionate speeches about life after death; he is the only one who can approach the dogs house who bites everyone; and Lottie discovers a newspaper article about necromancy which makes him laugh in a morbid way. He also seems to be very interested with Lottie and, one day, he meets her in an arbour and frightens her when he asks her to flee with him. Charley intervenes.....
