

Furry Christmas

Alice has hated Christmas for a decade, and this year is no exception. She's spending the holidays alone with her best friend's cat, while everyone she knows is out partying. To add to the fun, a huge stray dog just made a mess of her parents' living room, and her dreams are haunted by the sexy stranger she slept with almost six months ago. Quinn wasn't always a dog. At least that's what he thinks, but he can't be certain, because the killer migraines kick in. His collar reads Prince Charming, and he may turn out to be just that, if only he manages to remember that one important thing in time for her. Not really sure. All Quinn's sure of is he knows Alice. All Alice needs to do is believe in magic. And they're both running out of time. This is a short novella loosely connected to The Tenant.
