

King Stud

Danielles got three months to make her grandmothers rundown Craftsman house livable. Her game plan is to get in, get grubby, and get back home to L.A. She needs a carpenter, and her best friends younger brother is a good one. Its hard to ignore the buffed body under Ryans paint-splattered sweatshirts, but her friend declares hes off-limits so Danielle reluctantly agrees. Ryan doesnt have the cleanest record, anyway. His recently ex-ed girlfriend wants him back, and he has a reputation for brawling. Hes also had a crush on Danielle since he was a kid. Despite their nine-year age difference, he knows shes worth pursuing. Soon the paint under Danielles fingernails starts feeling more natural than the L.A. sunshine. Shell have to navigate plumbing disasters, money problems, and one seriously cranky best friend to find something she hasnt had before: a real home, and a man who loves her.
