

Emerald Fortune

Love drives the stakes even higher in this romantic suspense featuring a loner ex-federal agent, a gorgeous widow in London, and the fabulous Garden Emerald they both want. In Mail-Order Mate, mysterious gemstone agent Michael Stone delivers the wedding rings. Now with his own story, Mickey seeks the emerald to restore his ruined career. But the beautiful Laura Marley seeks the emerald to protect her family, and with money and connections, she drives a hard bargain. She insists on coming with him. As Mickey goes after the emerald, Laura becomes a liability when they confront a waterfront kingpin who keeps a six-foot shark in his office aquarium (not just for company), a killer in rainy New Orleans, and a gem-rustler in Los Angeles whose key weapon is the double-cross. Their attraction blazes, writes reviewer Linda O. Johnston. Yet neither can afford to get too emotionally involved as they seek the emerald and those who stole it. Louella Nelson's novel is an intriguing story of desperation and revenge, and ultimately the redemptive power of love, comments reviewer DeAnna Cameron. Excerpt: It felt treacherous gazing at Mickey. One hand lay open beside his face. His dark lashes swept against high cheekbones, making him look vulnerable and boyish. His magnificent shoulders were roped with muscle. A sickle scar marred his right shoulder, another the tapering cobblestones of his ribs. Dark hair bristled from the confines of a towel secured around his hips, and the terry cloth had fallen away to reveal a thigh that had been honed by hard workouts. Laura felt a mixture of emotions a longing to touch the seasoned, slightly battered body that had conjured the fiercest pleasure of her life from her; compassion for his exhaustion and the monkish way he lived; curiosity to know the whole of him, intimately.... Edgy! A far more complex plot than you might expect from a [romance]. --Roberta Gerber wine snob Emerald Fortune, a novel of international intrigue, revenge, and love. The author would like to hear from readers at www.LouellaNelson.com
