Tips On How To Overcome Being Insecure From The Book Tip 1: The first thing you want to understand about feeling secure is you were created to be exactly who you are. There's no one else like you. You are very special and unique. You possess gifts and talents that make you into the beautiful person you are. When you start feeling like you are not good enough, or as good as someone else, tell yourself that you were made to be exactly who you are. Tip 2: It's so hard at times to not compare yourself to others. I'm sure you see in other people qualities that you would like to possess. Some things are obtainable and therefore, you can make changes in your life to become the person you would like to be. People always say, don't compare yourself to others. Well, I agree to a certain point, but desiring to be like someone else can compel you to achieve more in life. As an example: When I was in high school there was a very popular guy who had an amazing smile. I liked his smile so much that I actually practiced trying to look like him. It didn't work very well. However, wanting to have a nice smile did compel me to get braces and go to the dentist for regular check-ups. Today, I have a really nice smile. There are tens of thousands of ways that you can compare yourself to others. You can use comparisons to your advantage or your defeat. The best thing that you can do is learn to like who you are and then work on being a better person. One of the key ways to become successful in business is referred to as modeling. This is where you actually model the behaviors of successful people in order to obtain the same results. There are 50 life-changing lessons for you to learn how to not be insecure from.
