

Catching Lightning

Is there ever a right time and place for love? Can one ever tell when or where it will strike? Can the love of a man win over the loathing of his country? Praise for the #1 bestseller CANDLES ON THE SAND: Chicklit Club - This is a wonderful story about finding your true self no matter how much it may hurt. Love on the Bookshelf Stephens weaves an involved tale with lots of nice, neat ends tied up for the reader. You'll truly fall in love with these characters. A well-told tale full of humour, poignant moments, and real emotion, this book stands out among the women's fiction I've read lately. Pick up a copy for something heart-warming that's sure to lift your spirits. The Romance Reviewers CANDLES ON THE SAND is a cheery and delightful romantic read. You never know where or when lightning will strike, but when it happens on a trip back to Kenya to bury your parents you know the timing isn't great. Mel has spent the past 14 years resenting her parents for abandoning her at a boarding school in England while they went back to Kenya, a country she had come to hate, to run an orphanage and school for their charity. A tragic accident forces her to return to Kamuti for her parents' funeral, forcing her to face her fear of flying and hatred for the place which has now stolen her parents from her for good. But meeting the people who meant so much to her parents and above all the gorgeous, England-educated Sam was not part of the plan. Finding her mother's diaries reveals a lot of unanswered questions and the discovery of a detailed itinerary of a trip round Kenya that her parents dreamed of making with her makes Mel realise that maybe she has had things wrong all these years. Will taking the trip help her find her answers? Will visiting the most beautiful and memorable locations of the land make her fall in love with the man, the country, neither or both? When Mel discovers the ultimate painful secret about her past and loses her job as a teacher at a posh girls school, she has one final choice to make as they say lightening only strikes once. A modern day OUT OF AFRICA in reverse story, CATCHING LIGHTNING provides the kind of realist escapism which would appeal to readers of Jill Mansell, Erica James and Santa Montefiore, with a pinch of Belinda Jones thrown in for good measure. Katie Stephens is the #1 bestselling author of CANDLES ON THE SAND. She works in PR and lives in Surrey, England, with her husband Will and two young daughters. In 2008 Katie signed herself up for a creative writing course, loved it and found herself spending all her spare time (not much with 2 young children) at the computer. Her first novel Candles on the Sand, set on the Amalfi Coast, was published in 2011 and went on to become an Amazon bestseller. www.katiestephens.co.uk Facebook
