With a habit of dating most of his leading ladies he has a playboy reputation that precedes him, but, as he prepares to head for Vegas to work alongside India Walsh on a new romantic comedy, he's well aware that she's one leading lady who may not be so easily swayed. But he's determined to try. Because he needs to get close to India for a reason. So, Dominic MacDonald is heading to Vegas with a plan. A plan that involves India. Because Dominic MacDonald has a secret. A big secret. A secret that involves somebody very close to India. A secret that will not only rock her world to its core but also, ultimately, the worlds of those around her. Now a successful beauty salon owner she loves her new role as an up-and-coming businesswoman. She's happily married to

Las Vegas hotel owner and movie producer Vince Maine, they have a beautiful daughter, and a life Charley adores. Until the past she's tried so hard to forget catches up with her in a way she hadn't even begun to imagine. A past that puts her bright new future, her marriage, and even the lives of everyone around her in terrifying danger. Kenny Ross has made a decision: he's not going to let certain aspects of his life hold him back any longer. He's determined to try and forget everything that stopped him from moving forward in the past, but, when he arrives in Vegas to visit India, he soon becomes involved in something that sees disturbing aspects of his past come back to haunt him. Is history about to repeat itself in Kenny Ross's world? In more ways than one. As the lives of this group of people once more become intertwined, is the past finally going to make sure that nobody's future can ever move forward? Are secrets and lies once more going to cause people's worlds to collapse around them? As emotions take over, and more mistakes are made, events in all their lives slowly merge together, leading to one shocking and terrifying night that none of them will forget.
