

Meditations (Book 2) - A Visual Illusion

How we create pictures and images in our mind can transform what is there. It is not our senses that creates our story but our interpretation of what we see and hear, touch, taste and smell. This book looks at the importance of how we interpret our life pictures. How we have the ability to make them something which they are not and if so, then how to use this skill. Being aware in the moment can identify what is actually there, being able to dream, visualise and create intentions, can imagine how we would like things to be. Can you use these skills to your own benefit? This book takes you down the road to start, with a mandala meditation and a gradual build up to stunning illustrations. Be aware, be present and always remember how to dream. Made for kindle fire with colourful visual experiences.
