

Moonlight Angel (Ashton Grove Werewolves Book 8)

The angel Adriel has faced hard decisions before, but deciding to give up his wings for the smallest shifter in the Ashton Grove pack was a no-brainer. All right, so maybe he shouldn't have rushed things. Maybe he should have waited until they actually met, but after keeping tabs on her from Heaven for the past month, he knows she's exactly what he wants. Kinley Taylor, Aussie transplant and only sugar glider in the Ashton Grove pack, decided long ago she didn't believe in mates. Well, not for her anyway. People are pairing up all around her, falling in love, binding themselves to one another, but she's holding out for something more. No ordinary wolf or shifter is going to hold her attention, of that she's certain. Imagine her confusion when she's attracted to someone new in town - and he's human! What would her dearly departed parents think of such a match? Adriel is determined to show Kinley that he's everything she's ever wanted, and more than she'll ever need. If he can't persuade her with words, he'll just have to keep his mouth occupied with other delights - like kissing her senseless. *NOTE: If you read this before reading Moonlight Warrior, you're going to be very confused. This is a novella.
