

My Guardian Vampire

What happens to your soul mate when you no longer have a soul? For centuries, Diego de la Cotera searched for the love of his life, or rather, for her reincarnated soul. The desperate vampire guarded over her descendants generation after generation waiting in the shadows for the day his beloved would find her way back to this life and back to him. On her 25th birthday, Mila Solis will get everything she's ever wanted. But first she must spend three days with the executor of her late parents' estate. At first, all she can think of is just surviving the long weekend. But when she begins to feel drawn to the man who used to be her legal guardian, suddenly the money isn't the only thing she's wanting by Monday. Will three days be enough for Diego to convince Mila that even though they both died a long time ago, their love can still survive? Or will she discover what he really is and walk away from him forever? Authors note: This novella was previously published in the Sinspirationally Yours anthology from Hot Ink Press.
