

Through Deaths Door: How To Transform Grief Into Gratitude

Following the tragic and sudden death of her mother, a 3-day retreat in a hermitage brings the author new insights, revelations and peace. No matter the cause, the death of a loved one brings a devastating sense of loss and causes a re-examination of our beliefs and fears. This two-part work begins with the in-the-moment grief journal, as it was written during the retreat. Part Two provides a workbook for the reader to use as they begin their own grief journey, as well as a collection of some of the authors favourite quotations and poems on the subject of grieving and loss.
