

The Blood King (Dardanos, Co. Book 1)

War was cruelty, cruelty was war. Sacrifices must be made by both sides. Rydere Dardanos was king of the Dardaptoan people--the race of beings responsible for the ancient vampire legends. Hed do anything to protect his people in the war between the Dardaptoans and all those named Taniss. Emily Taniss was the new CEO of Taniss Industries, the company her grandfather started sixty years ago. The company responsible for so many horrific acts against the Dardaptoan people. Her grandfathers actions held many repercussions for Emily and her cousins. It would take them years to straighten it all out. But Emily didnt have years, she had only moments. Rydere saw the young womans death as a necessary sacrifice for his people. So many of his people had been lost at Taniss hands, her death was only fitting. Owed to his people. He didnt have to like killing her, but he would do it. He held her small body clutched against him as he lowered his fangs toward her neck. He would make it easy on her, he would make it quick. Until his first taste of her blood made it clear to him she wasnt just a sacrifice. She was his destined mate...and queen of his people. Now he would have to convince her of that...
