Free for all Kindle Unlimited Subscribers
Moira remembers the day like it had happened the night before. She is a Highlander woman of the Beinn Nibheis mountain clan, but as a young girl, her parents were murdered by a wild bear, a memory that she cannot let go of. Left all alone, her only family was her surrogate mother and her childhood friend. Growing up, she was consumed by a hatred of bears, and spent most of her days hunting and killing every bear she could find. While scouting with her childhood friend, Ivar, Moira comes across a mysterious bear that seems different than usual. She loses track of him, but distracted Moira is saved from certain death by a handsome man, Artair, from her enemy's clan. After seeing him a few times, she finds herself in love with him, a feeling she never believed was possible for a girl like her. But there is a problem... A fellow member of Artair's clan reveals to Moira that Artair is a Bear Warrior: a legendary race of shape-shifter that can take on the form of the very beast she has vowed to destroy. What is she to do now? Please Note: This is a Novella with a HEA (happy ever after ending). Does not end with a cliffhanger.
